

Multisyllabic Decoding (Syllables and Accents)

1

Directions:

Instrucciones:

With your child repeating after you, practice sounding out the words in the word list below by saying each syllable in the word and then blending the syllables together.

Con su hijo/a repitiendo después de usted, practique pronunciar las palabras en la lista de palabras a continuación diciendo cada sonido de la palabra y luego fusionando los sonidos juntos.

2

Listen to:

Escuchar:

Multisyllabic Decoding - Syllables and Accents

Multisyllabic Decoding (Syllables and Accents) Word List

duration	collective	defendant	funeral	interpret
issuance	minimize	atomic	negative	management
logical	numeric	elastic	progressive	reliance
reporter	revision	departure	utilize	competent

3

For more practice:

Have your child read books aloud that contain multisyllabic words. The paragraph below is an example of the level your child should be reading. We've also provided a few book recommendations that are great for practicing multisyllabic decoding.

Para más práctica:

Haga que su hijo/a lea en voz alta libros que contengan palabras polisilábicas. El párrafo a continuación es un ejemplo del nivel al que debería estar leyendo su hijo/a. También hemos proporcionado algunas recomendaciones de libros que son excelentes para practicar la decodificación de palabras polisilábicas.

Passage Example / Pasaje de Ejemplo

Heather and Brook are a unique pair. They have been best friends since they were itty- bitty. They even refer to themselves as "unicorns" because that's how unique they are. What makes them so unique, you ask? Well, for starters, Heather and Brook are both bilingual. They can speak two languages fluently, which is a huge help in their jobs at the university.

They also have some pretty unique hobbies. Heather loves mathematics and art. She spends her weekends making intricate designs on paper and then uses a ruler to create lines that bisect the designs into equal parts. Brook loves to write stories about different universes. In his stories, there are no cars or planes or trains.

Recommended Books / Libros Recomendados

- Aesop's Fables by Aesop and Jerry Pinkney
- When the Bees Buzzed Off! by Lula Bell
- Alvin Ho series by Lenore Look

Learn more about our tutoring program at ignite-reading.com